

BIG BREACH

Union Resolutions Are Adopted and Bitter Union Opponents Hold Separate Meeting

WILL CONSUMMATE
UNION BY YEAR 1910

in Canada Come to Parting of the Ways

Toronto, June 11.—The debate on the question of church union in the Presbyterian general assembly was finally concluded this afternoon and the determining vote was taken. The commissioners present were more than three to one for the change, the last ballot showing 17* for union to 54 against.

The cleavage in the Presbyterian church appears clear and distinct. "We are not going to go in two ways," said Rev. Dr. James Ross, of London, Ont., during the discussion of the afternoon. Dr. Ross is one of the leaders of the church in the east. He was nominated as moderator of the present gathering. "The time has come," he continued, "when the Presbyterian body must count the cost. We must prepare for the inevitable loss

"I will assure the majority and the minority that we are in earnest. I will make it clear to those who have threatened continued opposition that we are not to be overruled."

The decision of the assembly was in the following words: "That in view of the large majority in our own church voting in favor of organic union and the practically unanimous favorable vote in the other negotiating churches, and in view of the intense desire of all sections of our church that the spirit of Christian unity which obtains between the churches may be continued and deepened in view of the strength of

"That in order to secure the final judgment of the church the findings of the joint committee negotiating with churches on all such proposals be sent to presbyteries, sessions and congregations, with the details of the vote already taken and all other relevant information."

These paragraphs are to a large extent just as they were when they were submitted to the assembly by the majority of the union committee. The only alteration which was regarded as an important one, was suggested by the Rev. David Christie of Winnipeg. Mr. Christie moves that the words, "in the house that you

E. D. G. Haugh, one of the well-known men about town, has recently suffered a severe loss, in the total destruction by fire of his charming summer residence at Okotoks, Alberta. Mr. Haugh, who has only recently returned from England, and who is naturally very distressed at the occurrence, happening as it has done, at the very beginning of the summer season. The delightful villa has been the rendezvous of many pleasant week-end parties, and the guests have revelled in the charms of wooded country and the pebbly beach of the lake—both of which have been so greatly added to by the indefatigable attentions of his host. The question is seriously asked: "Is Mr. Haugh going to re-build?"

Duchess is Convinced.
London, June 11.—The Duchess of Connaught was able to drive out yesterday with her leave for Glasgow at the end of the week.

GRACE CHURCH PRESENTATION.
Prior to her removal to another portion of the city where she will in future reside, the ladies of Grace Methodist Church last night presented Mrs. E. H. Garrison with a handsome cabinet of silver in token of appreciation of her services on behalf of the church. The presentation was accompanied by an address expressing the regret of the congregation at the departure of the lady, and by her untiring efforts in connection with Grace Church for some years.

Fifth and Last Court.
London, June 11.—The fifth and last court of the season was held at Buckingham Palace last night, and was as brilliant as its predecessor in every respect.

The King wore the uniform of a colonel in chief of the 2nd Life Regiment and the Queen wore a gray-blue tulle, with a diamond and silver train.

She also wore a diamond cross and rows of diamonds, including the Koh-i-noor and the stars of Africa formed into a collar with tie.

Cabinet Minister Is Married in Ottawa

OTTAWA, Ont., June 11.—An interesting but exceedingly quiet wedding ceremony took place in St. John's Church at 9.15 this morning, when Miss Mitty White, daughter of the late Hon. J. M. Macdonald, minister of the interior in the Macdonald administration, and Mrs. White, of Ottawa, was united in marriage to Hon. G. S. Peck, minister without portfolio, but acting minister of trade and commerce during the absence from Canada of Hon. Geo. E. Foster.

Rev. J. P. Gorman performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Canon Polard. The wedding was very quiet, owing to a recent bereavement in the family of the bride. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present.

Entertainments

AT THE PANTHEON.

The headlining bill at the Pantheon this week, William's Temple of Music, continues to be the big drawing card. The mechanical music, which has been played in a very beautiful manner, and the saw mill scene, in which three woodpeckers were made to sound like saws by using emery sticks, is perhaps the best of all. The sparks that are sent from the saw caused the stage to be lighted up beautifully, and all the while rendering scenic music.

The added attraction, the "Pernette" Company, also makes the pleasing act in the presentation of "The Favorite."

Le Petit Alva, juvenile comedienne, is a little wonder on the stage and her singing is of the best. She can change her costume as quickly as any of the older hands and she has a pleasing act in the presentation of "The Favorite."

Attendance at the Lyceum Theatre has picked up by leaps and bounds this week as the result of the fine production of "The Fortune Hunter," which is being played by the Toronto company, and the new attraction, "The Great Escape," which is being played by the same company.

Two large audiences greeted Winnipeg's comedy yesterday, and the rest of the week promises to break all records for the theatre.

A fine presentation of "The Girl From Texas," Edwin Popper's best drama, will be the offering at the Lyceum next week, with Grace Aylenworth and James Byssell in the two principal roles.

What the Adverse Man Says

MAUDE ADAMS TONIGHT.
One of the most delightful scenes in Harry's "Peter Pan" is held on the deck of the lake-ship, where the three children, Captain James Hook and Peter, engage in that desperate combat with the terrible Hook, being thrown overboard to the waiting crocodile, who has been waiting for the pirate captain's sake.

"Who are you, Pan?" "I'm yours, eternal youth. I'm the sun, I'm the moon, I'm the wind, I'm the water, I'm the world—I'm you, boy."

Peter's answer says describes the boy, it is a fantasy of youth, another hood, fairies and pirates. It is a work that waltzes nowhere and everywhere. His scene is in the land of make-believe, which every man has lived in the days of his youth, providing he was ever a little little boy. Every little girl who has played in a garden house and motherhood, and who has dreamed of princes and gallant heroes and rescues and all that, is familiar with Peter Pan's country. It seems as if no play of modern times has had more to do with the real one's youth as does this work, which has in it so much for the adult mind. Full of whimsicality, quaint, pungent satire and real humor, it has been the English speaking stage for nine years. Now it is looked upon as a classic, Maude Adams, the girl of youth, Nothing that the actress has ever done has pleased her admirers more. As Maude Adams, she is to be seen in the play at the Empire Theatre for the first time, starting tonight and including a Saturday matinee.

NEXT WEEK'S VAUDEVILLE.
Verdell, shortly to be a player's most famous. Harry, after becoming accustomed to seeing an actor or actress in a particular line, it is difficult to dissociate him or her from that field of endeavor.

Miss O'Day, who comes to the Empire Theatre the first half of next week as a feature of the Orpheum vaudeville show, has worked industriously, conscientiously and successfully to gain recognition as an actress. In this effort she has appeared in and again in various capable sketches, invariably meeting the success desired.

Now, however, she has stepped forward and taken her place as a star, and she has erected for herself and is appearing in what is known in vaudeville parlance as a single, her efforts being given an unusual title of a "monogram." Miss O'Day's pleasing voice has long been a matter of record and for her present service, she has secured a number of descriptive names said to be exceedingly clever. To this her irrepressible personality is added with a result most gratifying both to her audience and to herself.

YANKEE ROBINSON CHIRCS.

Amusement lovers need only to know that the Yankee Robinson shows are to exhibit here to see that a rowdies is in store for them. Later in every way than ever before, this old circus will, without doubt, leave a trail of universal approval behind it from the start of the season to the end. Circus, circuses, wild, wild, circus, hippodrome and trained wild animal exhibition, every department strong, the department neglected, the Robinson program will be a wonder. Among the other features the trained wild animals are worthy of special mention. The Robinson show carries more of the educated wild beasts than all others combined. Performing wile, lions, leopards, panthers, tigers, bears, goats, dogs, ponies, monkeys, kangaroos and elephants, featuring the only bareback lion riding in the world today. Among the features of the program that are sure to appeal, especially to the children, are the two baby elephants, "Mott" and "Jeff."

This old circus has ever been famous for its bareback rides. It offers this year Albert Davidson, champion rider of the world, Fred H. Jones, Cossetti, the world champion jockey riders, Marie Davidson and Miss McSweeney, the acknowledged champion lady principal equestrienne, and Ralph, however, Eugene's famous horse and amateur rider.

More big games than more than 200 real circus artists, dozens of funny clowns, road, Tokyo Japanese troupe, Professor Tread's musical troupe, walking acts, Lulu Hale, aerial acrobatic dancer, a score of amateur leopards and high wire performers, Komag, larger elephant than Combs, the Ten Tons, wild men, including Okotoks and Mountain Noll, the original Deadwood stage coach and over the cowboys and in use in the thrilling spectacle, "Hanging the Indians." The Robinson program is endorsed by special appropriate music by Professor Tread and his circus concert band of 20 solo artists. The big show comes to Edmonton next Saturday for the exhibitory tour and the tents will be located on Ross flats, south of baseball park.

THE TROUBLES OF SIR MAX

Sir Max Aitken delivers himself of the opinion that Alberta cities have been borrowing money too fast, and that they really must call a halt, you know.

Sir Max affords an interesting instance of the facility with which a young gentleman who puts over a profitable job on his countrymen and keeps out of jail at once begins to spend the paternal spirit and hands out advice as though he traced descent through a hundred bankers.

If Sir Max is really concerned at the borrowings of Western cities and wishes to see them pile up obligations at a more leisurely pace, he should remember that he is in part responsible for the of fence, and may help materially to remedy matters. A goodly proportion of the borrowings of Western cities goes to pay dividends on the watered stock in Sir Max's cement merger. If he wishes to curtail the borrowing rate, he might drain off some of this fictitious capitalization and cut down the price of cement to a figure proportioned to the money put into the cement-making business.

Of if Sir Max could manage to pay something more than 15 cent at his Alberta elevators for 42 cent outs the added income would to some extent offset in Western accounts the borrowings necessitated by the exactions of his cement trust.

Meantime, Albertans who know Sir Max's record will be disposed to think that he is not worrying so much about the amount of money borrowed as about the amount of the borrowings he might have pocketed had he been able to rig up in London a combination of capitalists who should say how much a city may borrow and what it must pay for the loan.

THE BRIBE DEMANDED.

The Pope and the annexation bogey were not the only issues raised against Sir Wilfrid Laurier and his Government in 1911. The failure of the Farmers' Bank was a subject of lively discussion on many an Ontario platform, and pretty fair percentage of the Government supporters from the Western counties of that Province got into power on the promise that they would use their vote and influence to have the losses made up to the shareholders in that unfortunate concern.

It was evidently the idea of the Government that the Bankers' Association produce the wherewithal to implement these promises of their supporters; in return for the amendment of the Bank Act along the lines the association suggested. Instead of the Bank Act being sent directly to the committee of the House, where discussion would be more confined, and perhaps less candid, it was referred to the committee on banking. In the less embarrassing atmosphere of this committee the members who had promised to get the Farmers' Bank shareholders their money unhesitated themselves with some freedom. The money simply had to be forthcoming, was the burden of their song.

Seemingly the Bankers' Association did not see it that way. Not having been responsible for the loss, the bankers did not see why they should suffer the consequences. What is more, they did not relish being summoned to Ottawa—with a retinue of expensive lawyers—for the purpose of being damned by the distressed politicians. So far as appears from the circumstances, the bankers decidedly declined to "come through" with the money.

SACK OF FLOUR IS HURLED AT BRITISH PREMIER

—Suffragette Male Sympathizer Drops "Bomb" in House of Commons

CHURCHILL ANSWERS BEEKEFORD'S QUESTION

Concerning the Government's decision to Lay Down Three More Dreadnoughts

London, June 11.—While Premier Asquith was speaking in the House of Commons this afternoon a bag thrown from a gallery fell with a thump near the speaker's chair and burst, covering the surrounding seats with flour.

At the same time a batch of leaflets scattered down, threw by a young man who shouted something about "Miss Emily Wilding Davidson, the suffragette martyr."

The incident had been intended to hit the premier. It passed close by his shoulder and fell harmlessly to the floor. The thrower was quickly ejected from the house.

When the members had recovered from their astonishment they loudly cheered the premier, who then resumed his speech.

Churchill's Reply.

In the House of Commons Winston Spencer Churchill, in reply to Lord Charles Balfour, said that it was a misapprehension of the situation created by the rejection of the Canadian naval program that His Majesty's Government was determined to advance construction of three contract ships of this year's shipbuilding program. He could not guarantee that there would be no delay to their completion and he was quite sure, as the noble lord had pointed out, that the Admiralty, the Home Office and the War Office were not completed until seven months after their allotted date and that the Canadian and Australian were not completed until two months after.
